
RESOURCES

1. To understand and identify your policy stakeholders

If you want to find out what issues will be relevant to policymakers – policy questions

Scotland

- Programme for Government (annual): Scottish Government
- Scottish Government's National Performance Framework (challenges for the next four years)

UK Government & Parliament

- Topics that will be relevant during the legislature: UK Parliament
- Areas of research interest: UK Government

How to keep track of live and forthcoming parliamentary inquiries, committees and calls for evidence

- Scottish Parliament
- Scottish Government
- Westminster
- Senedd
- NI Assembly

Information about reserved and devolved powers

- What do reserved and devolved powers mean, Centre for Constitutional Change
- What powers does Scottish Parliament have, Centre for Constitutional Change

Stakeholder Mapping/Analysis

- Quick guide to stakeholder analysis (includes power/interest matrix), MindTools
- Alignment, Influence and Interest Matrix Toolkit, Overseas Development Institute (ODI)

2. Producing materials for your stakeholders

If you need to write a blog for a policy audience

- SPRE's advice

If you need to submit writing evidence to

- Scottish Parliament
- House of Commons

Writing a Policy Brief

- Policy Briefs: A guide to writing policy briefs for research uptake, London School of Hygiene and Tropical Medicine
- Writing a policy briefing using POST Note style, UK Parliamentary Office of Science and Technology (POST)

Compiled by Scottish Policy and Research Exchange and Policy Scotland for Scotland's Third Sector Research Forum Conference, 17 February 2021.